

Primary Care & Older Persons – Key to Medical & Social Integration

October 9-10, 2009 (Friday and Saturday) 9:15 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Shaw Auditorium, Postgraduate Education Centre, Prince of Wales Hospital

Older persons, particularly those with chronic diseases, have complex needs requiring medical as well as social care to be provided in a seamless manner. Primary care can be such a platform for health and social care providers for management of chronic diseases, psychosocial problems, as well as health promotion.

“CADENZA Symposium 2009: Primary Care & Older Persons – Key to Medical & Social Integration” provides a forum where health and social service providers, academia and experts will jointly deliberate models and strategies in building a primary care system for older persons in Hong Kong.

CADENZA: A Jockey Club Initiative for Seniors is a five-year project launched by The Hong Kong Jockey Club Charities Trust with $380 million funding, in light of the rapidly ageing population in Hong Kong. Through community projects, research, training and public education, the project aims to create an elder-friendly community which fosters positive community attitude towards older people and continuously improves the quality of care and quality of life for Hong Kong's elderly. The Faculty of Social Sciences of The University of Hong Kong and the Faculty of Medicine of The Chinese University of Hong Kong are project partners.
